Cognitive Psychology of Mass Communication

Harris, Richard Jackson

Table of Contents

Mass Communication in Our Wired Society: The Changing Media Landscape
Research and Theory in Mass Communication: How We Study Media Scientifically
The Psychology of Media Use: Tapping into our Deepest Selves
Media Portrayals of Groups: Distorted Social Mirrors
Advertising: Baiting, Catching, and Reeling Us In Sports, Music, and Religion: Emotion on Display
News: Setting the Agenda About the World
Politics: Using News and Advertising to Win Elections
Violence: Watching All That Mayhem Really Matters
Sex: Pornography, Innuendo, and Rape as a Turn-On Socially Positive Media: Teaching about Health and Other Good Things
Responding to Media: Getting Our Two Cents In References