Table of Contents

Contributors

Foreword, Joyce. J. Fitzpatrick
Preface
Acknowledgements
1. Disciplinary Perspectives Linked to Middle Range Theory, Marlaine C. Smith
2. Understanding Middle Range Theories by Moving Up and Down the Ladder of Abstraction, Mary Jane Smith and Patricia Liehr
3. Building Structures for Research, Patricia Liehr and Mary Jane Smith
4. Theories of Uncertainty in Illness, Merle H. Mishel and Margaret F. Clayton
5. The Theory of Meaning, Patricia L. Starck
6. The Theory of Self-Transcendence, Pamela G. Reed
7. The Theory of Community Empowerment, Cynthia Armstrong Persily and Eugenie Hildebrandt
8. The Theory of Symptom Management, Janice Humphreys, Kathryn A. Lee, Virginia Carieri-Kohlman, Kathleen Puntillo, Julia Faucett, Susan Janson, Bradley Aouizerat, DorAnne Donesky-Cuenco, and The UCSF School of Nursing Symptom Management Faculty Group
9. The Theory of Unpleasant Symptoms, Elizabeth R. Lenz and Linda C. Pugh
10. The Theory of Self-Efficacy, Barbara Resnick
11. Story Theory, Patricia Liehr and Mary Jane Smith
12. The Theory of Family Stress and Adaptation, Geri LoBiondo-Wood
13. The Theory of Cultural Marginality, Heeseung Choi
14. The Theory of Caregiving Dynamics, Loretta Williams
15. The Theory of Moral Reckoning, Alvita Nathaniel
16. Evaluation of Middle Range Theories for the Discipline of Nursing, Marlaine C. Smith

Appendix Middle Range Theories 1988 - 2007
Index