Table of Contents

Notes on Contributors.
Foreword.
Acknowledgments.

Part I: Introduction:
1. Overview and Introduction: Tammy D. Allen (University of South Florida), Lillian T. Eby (University of Georgia).
2. Definition and Evolution of Mentoring: Lillian T. Eby (University of Georgia), Jean E. Rhodes (University of Massachusetts, Boston), Tammy D. Allen (University of South Florida).

Part II: Theoretical Approaches and Methodological Issues:
4. Student–Faculty Mentoring: Theoretical Approaches and Methodological Issues: W. Brad Johnson (U.S. Naval Academy), Gail Rose (University of Vermont), Lewis Z. Schlosser (Seton Hall University).
5. Workplace Mentoring: Theoretical Approaches and Methodological Issues: Terri A. Scandura (University of Miami), Ekin K. Pellegrini (University of Missouri-St. Louis).
6. Reflections on the Theoretical Approaches and Methodological Issues in Mentoring Relationships: Marcus M. Butts (University of Georgia), Jaime R. Durley (University of Georgia), Lillian T. Eby (University of Georgia).

Part III: Naturally Occurring Mentoring Relationships:
8. Naturally Occurring Student–Faculty Mentoring Relationships: A Literature Review: Carol A. Mullen (University of South Florida).
9. Naturally Occurring Mentoring Relationships Involving Workplace Employees: Thomas W. Dougherty (University of Missouri-Columbia), Daniel B. Turban (University of Missouri-Columbia), Dana L. Haggard (University of Missouri-Columbia).
10. Reflections on Naturally Occurring Mentoring Relationships: Elizabeth Lentz, Tammy D. Allen (both University of South Florida).

Part IV: Benefits of Mentoring:
11. The Benefits Associated with Youth Mentoring Relationships: Lynn Blinn-Pike (Indiana University-Purdue University).
12. Student–Faculty Mentorship Outcomes: W. Brad Johnson (U.S. Naval Academy).
13. The Benefits Associated with Workplace Mentoring Relationships: Aarti Ramaswami (Indiana University-Bloomington), George F. Dreher (Indiana University-Bloomington).

Part V: Diversity and Mentoring:
15. Diversity and Youth Mentoring Relationships: Belle Liang (Boston College), Jennifer Grossman (Harvard Medical School/Massachusetts General Hospital).
16. Mentoring in Academia: Considerations for Diverse Populations: William E. Sedlacek (University of Maryland), Eric Benjamin (Montgomery College), Lewis Z. Schlosser (Seton Hall University), Hung-Bin Sheu (University of Maryland, College Park).
18. Reflections on Diversity and Mentoring: Hazel-Anne M. Johnson, Xian Xu, Tammy D. Allen (all University of South Florida).
Part VI: Best Practices for Formal Mentoring Programs:

20. Best Practices for Student–Faculty Mentoring Programs: Clark D. Campbell (George Fox University).

Part VII: Integrating Multiple Mentoring Perspectives:

23. New Directions in Mentoring: Steve Bearman (University of California, Santa Cruz), Stacy Blake-Beard (Simmons College), Laurie Hunt (Laurie Hunt & Associates/Simmons College), Faye J. Crosby.

24. Common Bonds: An Integrative View of Mentoring Relationships: Tammy D. Allen (University of South Florida), Lillian T. Eby (University of Georgia).

Bibliography.

Name Index.

Subject Index